Bradley Brothers' Legacy

In 1903, Lynde and Harry Bradley established a new business in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. It took courage and confidence for them to risk resources in a new venture, based only on their judgment of what was and their vision of what could be. The Bradleys' confidence was bolstered by the knowledge that in America, not only were they free to start a business, they could also begin again if they failed. The Bradleys, however, would not fail. Their business grew to become the Allen-Bradley Company.

When the Allen-Bradley Company was acquired by Rockwell International Corporation in 1985, a significant portion of the proceeds was dedicated to establishing The Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation. Although it has no direct ties to the Allen-Bradley Company, the purpose of the Foundation is to commemorate Lynde and Harry Bradley by preserving and extending the principles and philosophy by which they lived and upon which they built the company.

As their efforts succeeded, their business grew and eventually extended far beyond its Milwaukee headquarters. Lynde and Harry Bradley remained devoted to the city where they began their enterprise and in which they lived and worked for so many years. Their foundation will continue the Bradleys' interest in helping to improve the quality of life in the Milwaukee metropolitan area.

The Bradleys lived and worked according to several philosophical principles. They believed that, over time, the consequences of ideas were more decisive than the force of political or economic movements. They recognized the interdependence of human endeavors—cultural, educational, philosophical, economic—and they rejected exclusionary emphasis on any single element. The brothers had an abiding belief in the dignity and decency of each person. They felt that only in an environment of political and economic freedom could individuals develop their talents, hone their skills and intellects, and contribute to the improvement of the human condition. The success of the Allen-Bradley Company stands as eloquent testimony to the enduring quality of these principles.

The Bradley brothers were committed to preserving and defending the tradition of free representative government and private enterprise that has enabled the American nation and, in a larger sense, the entire Western world to flourish intellectually and economically. The Bradleys believed that the good society is a free society. The Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation is likewise devoted to strengthening American democratic capitalism and the institutions, principles and values that sustain and nurture it. Its programs support limited, competent government; a dynamic marketplace for economic, intellectual, and cultural activity; and a vigorous defense at home and abroad of American ideas and institutions. In addition, recognizing that responsible self-government depends on enlightened citizens and informed public opinion, the Foundation supports scholarly studies and academic achievement.

The Foundation's Board, on occasion, undertakes to define and redefine its current program interests. At present, the Foundation aims to encourage projects that focus on cultivating a renewed, healthier, and more vigorous sense of citizenship among the American people, and among peoples of other nations, as well.

The free society so central to the convictions and success of the Bradley brothers rests upon and is intended to nurture a solid foundation of competent, self-governing citizens, who are understood to be fully capable of and personally responsible for making the major political, economic, and moral decisions that shape their own lives, and the lives of their children. Such decisions are made on the basis of common sense, received wisdom, traditional values, and everyday moral understandings, which are in turn nurtured and passed on to future generations by healthy families, churches, neighborhoods, voluntary associations, schools, and other value-generating "mediating structures."

This expansive understanding of citizenship is being challenged today, however, by contemporary forces and ideas that regard individuals more as passive and helpless victims of powerful external forces than as personally responsible, self-governing citizens, and that foster a deep skepticism about citizenly values and mediating structures. Consequently, authority and accountability tend to flow away from citizens toward centralized, bureaucratic, "service-providing" institutions that claim to be peculiarly equipped to cope with those external forces on behalf of their "clients." This systematic disenfranchisement of the citizen, and the consequent erosion of citizenly mediating structures, pose grave threats to the free society that the Bradley brothers cherished.

In light of these considerations, projects likely to be supported by the Foundation will generally share these assumptions:

- They will treat free men and women as genuinely self-governing, personally responsible citizens, not as victims or clients.
- They will aim to restore the intellectual and cultural legitimacy of citizenly common sense, the received wisdom of experience, everyday morality, and personal character, refurbishing their roles as reliable guideposts of everyday life.
- They will seek to reinvigorate and reempower the traditional, local institutions—families, schools, churches, and neighborhoods—that provide training in and room for the exercise of genuine citizenship, that pass on everyday morality to the next generation, and that cultivate personal character.
- They will encourage decentralization of power and accountability away from centralized, bureaucratic, national institutions back to the states, localities, and revitalized mediating structures where citizenship is more fully realized.

Current Program Interests

In addition to these thematic considerations, eligible projects will exhibit these features:

- They may address any arena of public life—economics, politics, culture, or civil society—where citizenship as here understood is an important issue. It is important to note that our view of citizenship is not primarily concerned with promoting civics education, voter awareness or turn-out, or similar activities narrowly focused on voting and elections.
- They may address the problem of citizenship at home or abroad, where the fall of many (and the perpetuation of some) totalitarian regimes has made this issue particularly urgent.
- In light of our emphasis on decentralization, and considering the Foundation’s deep roots in Milwaukee and Wisconsin—areas with proud traditions of innovation and experimentation in democratic citizenship—community and state projects will be of particular interest to us. Such projects will aim to improve the life of the community through increasing cultural and educational opportunities, grass-roots economic development, and effective and humane social and health services, reflecting where possible the Foundation’s focus on the resuscitation of citizenship.
- Projects may be actual demonstrations of the resuscitation of citizenship in the economic, political, cultural, or social realms; policy research and writing about approaches encouraging that resuscitation; academic research and writing that explore the intellectual roots of citizenship, its decline, and prospects for revival; and popular writing and media projects that illustrate for a broader public audience the themes of citizenship.

Much of the creative and energetic leadership essential for a renewal of citizenship will be supplied by gifted individuals, who must receive challenging and stimulating programs and instruction at all levels of their education. The Foundation supports programs that research the needs of gifted children and techniques of providing education for students with superior skills and/or intelligence. Research programs investigating how learning occurs in gifted children and demonstration programs of instruction are to be considered.

The programs and funding decisions of the Bradley Foundation are the responsibility of the Board of Directors. At the discretion of the Board, the policies set forth herein will be modified in response to changing conditions and priorities.

The guidelines established by the Board of Directors will normally preclude funding for unspecified and undetailed overhead costs. No funds will be authorized for fees payable to fund-raising counsel. In addition, grants without significant import to the Foundation's areas of interest will only under special conditions be considered for endowment or deficit-financing purposes.

The Foundation will:

- Normally award grants only to organizations and institutions exempt from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code and publicly supported under Section 509(a)(1), (2) or (3);
- Favor projects that are not normally financed by public tax funds;
- Consider requests for building projects and limit grants to a fraction of the total project cost.

Grantees must possess the resources to properly administer grants from the Foundation. The Foundation conducts an annual evaluation of grants, and grantees are asked to provide periodic reports on the progress of their work.

Application Procedure

*T*wo steps are required in the application process. First, the applicant should prepare a brief letter of inquiry, describing the applicant's organization and intended project. If the Foundation determines the project to be within its current program interests, the applicant will be invited to submit a formal proposal.

The second step is the actual submission of the proposal. Applicants should submit a letter presenting a concise description of the project, its objectives and significance, and the qualifications of the organizations and individuals involved. Included with the letter should be a project budget, the amount of the grant sought from the Bradley Foundation, and other sources of support. The applicant should complete the "Grantee Tax Exempt Status Information" form included with the Program Guidelines and submit a copy of the IRS letter confirming the organization's tax-exempt and public-support status under Sections 501(c)(3) and 509(a), respectively, of the Internal Revenue Code.

Meetings between the Foundation staff and applicants, when necessary, will be arranged after the receipt of a written proposal. Final authority for making grants rests with the Board of Directors, which meets four times a year, February, May or June, August, and November. The Directors act on grant requests after proposals have been comprehensively reviewed by Foundation staff. Each proposal is reviewed according to its unique characteristics. To be considered at one of these meetings, proposals should be submitted by the following dates: December 1, March 1, June 1, September 1.

Whenever possible, proposals submitted by these deadlines will be considered at the next Board meeting. However, circumstances may sometimes require a lengthier period of review.

Because of the necessarily limited resources of the Foundation, many worthwhile projects cannot be supported. The demands on the Foundation's resources also limit the size of particular grants and the ability of the Foundation to make commitments for extended periods. For more information about the Bradley Foundation, including our guidelines for submitting proposals, please visit our web site at www.bradleyfdn.org.

Improve Education

“Recognizing that responsible self-government depends on enlightened citizens and informed public opinion, the Foundation supports scholarly studies and academic achievement.”

Bradley Foundation grants in this area are made as part of our commitment to helping insure the widest possible universe of educational options for all parents and families. Bradley’s grants aim to protect and expand full school choice and charter schools for all students in Milwaukee and around the country, raise the level of services for gifted students in our community, the state, and the nation, and improve curriculum standards and accountability for all schools.

Promote Economic Growth and Prosperity

“The Bradley brothers were committed to preserving and defending the tradition of free representative government and private enterprise that has enabled the American nation, and, in a larger sense, the entire Western world to flourish intellectually and economically.”

Consonant with its purpose the Foundation supports projects designed to secure a growing and prosperous economy, and, in doing so, better the prospect for the good life for all our citizens. To that end grants are made to affect government policies which lighten overall tax and regulatory burdens, open up the current retirement security system to informed individual preferences, and diminish government’s role in health care by promoting the benefits of incentive-based healthcare models.

“The Foundation aims to encourage projects that focus on cultivating a renewed, healthier, and more vigorous sense of citizenship among the American people, and among peoples of other nations, as well.”

The Bradley Foundation’s “New Citizenship” grantmaking agenda seeks to further the interests of or directly assist community-based, voluntary, grassroots and faith-based groups. The Foundation aims to reinvigorate and renew traditional, local institutions such as families, schools, churches, and neighborhoods, as they provide opportunities for the exercise of genuine citizenship.

Strengthen Private Initiative

“The brothers had an abiding belief in the dignity and decency of each person. They felt that only in an environment of economic and political freedom could individuals develop their talents, hone their skills and intellect, and contribute to the improvement of the human condition.”

To commemorate the Bradley brothers’ deep belief in enabling all to better their lives, the Foundation makes grants which respect and enhance the rights of all people to offer their labor and talents on their own individual terms. A special interest of Bradley’s philanthropy in this regard is seeking to help others develop their own philanthropy consistent with those of the two brothers.

Defend and Advance Freedom

“The Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation is likewise devoted to strengthening American democratic capitalism and the institutions, principles and values that sustain and nurture it. Its programs support limited, competent government, and a vigorous defense at home and abroad of American ideas and institutions.”

The Foundation’s grantmaking traditionally is directed to projects and institutions contributing in an important way to the development and implementation of a defense and security policy that defends American interests at home and abroad. It seeks to encourage those who work vigorously to defend the tradition of free representative government.

Intellectual Infrastructure

“They believed that, over time, the consequences of ideas were more decisive than the force of political or economic movements.”

The Bradley Foundation works to strengthen institutions and individuals which contribute to the nurturing of those ideas that form the cornerstone of our intellectual, cultural, and economic way of life. The Foundation typically assists programs and scholars in higher education, “think tanks,” journals, magazines, books, and other undertakings that enlighten and inform public opinion.

Bradley Prizes 2008

Milwaukee's Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation awarded its 2008 Bradley Prizes to University of Chicago economist Gary S. Becker, Hoover Institution scholar Victor Davis Hanson, University of Pennsylvania historian Alan Charles Kors, and community advocate Robert L. Woodson in an inspiring and entertaining ceremony at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C., on June 4. The $250,000 prizes recognize and celebrate the honorees' achievements in areas consistent with the Foundation's mission – the promotion and defense of liberal democracy, democratic capitalism, and American ideas and institutions at home and abroad.

his expertise in human capital, economic incentives, and the economics of the family. In 1992, he was awarded the Nobel Memorial Prize for Economic Science. In 2007, President George W. Bush presented Dr. Becker with the Presidential Medal of Freedom for his contributions to the intellectual defense of free-market economics.

Dr. Hanson is the Martin and Illie Anderson Senior Fellow in Residence in Classics and Military History at the Hoover Institution. He is the author of hundreds of articles, scholarly papers, and commentaries on topics ranging from ancient history and Western civilization to national security, domestic politics, and contemporary culture. Dr. Hanson has written or edited 17 books, including the award-winning A War Like No Other: How the Athenians and Spartans Fought the Peloponnesian War. He is a nationally syndicated columnist, and he serves on the editorial boards of Military History Quarterly and City Journal. In 2007, Dr. Hanson received the National Humanities Medal.

Dr. Becker is a University Professor of Economics and Sociology at the University of Chicago. He is also the Rose-Marie and Jack R. Anderson Senior Fellow at the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution, and Peace. Dr. Becker is recognized for his pioneering application of economic reasoning to social policy issues as well as for

Brit Hume, Master of Ceremonies

Dr. Kors is the George H. Walker Term Professor of History at the University of Pennsylvania. He is Senior Fellow at both the Foreign Policy Research Institute and Goldwater Institute. Specializing in European intellectual history of the 17th and 18th centuries, Dr. Kors was Editor-in-Chief of the four-volume Oxford Encyclopedia of the Enlightenment. Since the early 1980s, Dr. Kors has been writing and lecturing widely on the absence of freedom of expression and conscience in academic life. He is co-author of the 1998 book The Shadow University: The Betrayal of Liberty on American Campuses and co-founding Chairman Emeritus of the Foundation for Individual Rights in Education. In 2003, Dr. Kors received the National Humanities Medal. In 2008, he received the American Conservative Union's Jeane Kirkpatrick Academic Freedom Award.

Mr. Woodson is founding president of the Center for Neighborhood Enterprise, an organization supporting community-based initiatives to revitalize distressed neighborhoods. A former civil rights activist, Mr. Woodson guides the Center in providing counsel, training, and technical assistance to civic leaders in low-income communities across the nation. He pioneered its effective Violence-Free Zones program in public middle and high schools to reduce youth crime and gang activity. A proponent of self-help strategies, Mr. Woodson is a social commentator in the print and on-air media. He is a member of the Homeland Security Advisory Council and the National Advisory Council on Drug Abuse. Mr. Woodson is the recipient of the Martin Luther King, Jr. Family Life Institute "Real Dream" Award and the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Fellowship.

Bradley Symposium 2008

In June 2008, the Bradley Center for Philanthropy and Civic Renewal at the Hudson Institute in Washington, D.C. held its fourth annual Bradley Symposium, co-sponsored by Encounter Books, on the power of ideas, publishing, and preserving liberty and democracy.

William Schambra introduces panelists at the 2008 Bradley Symposium

Too often, ideas are discounted as the effete plaything of the chattering classes, yet they have the power to transform our nation's institutions – from our courts and legislatures to marriage and family life. Since 1998, Encounter Books has aimed to broaden public debate by bringing many new voices to bear on important policy and cultural issues.

During “Encounter at 10: The Power of Ideas,” before a standing room only crowd of almost 200, three panels discussed commissioned essays by 2008 Bradley Prize recipient Victor Davis Hanson, John Fonte of Hudson’s Center for American Common Culture and Andrew McCarthy of the Foundation for Defense of Democracies. A link to the full transcript of the discussions is available online at www.bradleyfdn.org.

Hanson wrote and spoke about “Memory and Civic Education: The Perils of Cultural Amnesia,” Fonte examined “Global Governance vs. the Liberal Democratic Nation-State: What is the Best Regime?,” and McCarthy addressed “The Jihad in Plain Sight.” Fonte was an active participant in The Bradley Project on America’s National Identity.

Presentations by the three essay authors were followed by comments from four other prominent Encounter authors: James Piereson, John O’Sullivan, and Robert Bork, respectively. Encounter president and publisher Roger Kimball also spoke on “Publishing and the Importance of Ideas.” Kimball edits The New Criterion magazine, as well.

Encounter Books is an activity of Encounter for Culture and Education, a nonprofit group that is substantially supported by The Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation. Bradley also supports Hudson’s Bradley Center for Philanthropy and Civic Renewal, their Center for American Common Culture, Foundation for Defense of Democracies, and The New Criterion.
